Artwork covered

The Hearts To Him Press stacked wordmark with a standalone cross and a line leading to its base, delivered October 2, 2026. Release and assignment

To the extent Designer owns transferable rights in the covered artwork, Designer assigns all such right, title, and interest, including copyright, to Client worldwide for the full duration of those rights, subject to applicable law. Client may use, reproduce, publish, display, distribute, resize, modify, and authorize others to use the artwork for books, book spines, websites, advertising, merchandise, and other commercial or noncommercial purposes. No further design approval, attribution, or royalty to Designer is required for these uses.

Rights and materials outside the transfer

The artwork was developed with generative AI assistance and client-supplied references. This release transfers only rights Designer actually holds; it does not create exclusive copyright in elements that are not protectable or transfer third-party rights. No font software or font license is conveyed. Client retains any rights Client already holds in supplied materials. Neither trademark clearance nor copyright or trademark registration is included or guaranteed.

Existing project terms

This release does not certify that any invoice has been paid, impose additional fees, or change the parties' existing payment obligations. It applies only to the covered artwork and does not require additional design services. Designer grants no reuse rights to others in Client's name or branding through this release.
